World Exclusive Article Series in Hawarya News, Canada

Since his release from jail, this is the first extensive English-language interview with Weizhen Tang, the 51-year-old self-styled "Chinese Warren Buffet" who promised his investors a 1% return - per week! Tang raised $65 Million CDN within 3 years for his investment funds, only to be charged criminally in spring 2009 with running a Ponzi scheme and defrauding investors of some $30 Million. While Tang was in China, Metro Toronto Police issued a Canada-wide warrant for his arrest. Returning to Toronto on January 13, 2010, Tang proclaimed his innocence, but was immediately arrested at the airport.

Since Tang's release from jail on April 20, 2010, our reporters met with Weizhen Tang

The source of understandings to subjects may vary. In deed knowledge could arise from such measures as learning new ideas, participation, researches, reasoning or experiences. Although the bulk of knowledge we are bestowed on to serve our society and to conceive fruits for future generations that could earn us our deserved place and honor in our social life drives from different references. The effectiveness of understanding & knowledge we extract from experience is so invaluable. The width and depth of experience is remarkably huge. Experience, beyond the "black or white" image of its analogy of "success or failure", it also bears unsettled causes and complex features of issues difficult to understand at a specific period of time. The beauty of it, however, is its ability helping us picking up the rights and dropping the wrongs easily while it becomes a good beginning to put ourselves in a position to find different and new method of solutions for issues which had been difficult to interpret and not fully understood yet. The importance of occurrences of past actions and phenomena came to effect with unimaginable high expenses and opportunity cost triggered by different reasons from various directions due to the enviable social process and the necessity of time are very significant.

Muluken Muchie

One can understand the social development process to this time has come through unique and different mod of social-relations evolved in each stage to fit the particular time of existence. Before society was not grown & developed like today's global sense, it might have been serving interests to regroup under clan, religion, race, ..etc. During that period of time wherein safety and opportunities were protected within such social strata, it might have been proper to create a group identity and forcefully safe guard the interest of the entity using primitive means such as hate, violence and killings. But today, whereas narrow interests are expanded, citizens are more enlightened and question the limits of authorities, above all whereas the wisdom and integration of society is tremendous and individuals relate each other on the basis of their shared values and world outlooks, it does not make sense to enslave the social course into a backward social relation which does not benefit the society enlarge except a few self-claimed leaders who stood out as fanatics and dictators. More than ever it has become evident that there is a close proximity among the world's populations; because of multitude of reasons millions of peoples from different country of origins have been crossing boarders seeking peaceful and prosperous life in other countries and they continue to be permanent residents and citizens. . It is an obvious matter to note that most of those who left their country of origins are living a better life in their choice of countries and rearing their children. So, in this era of human migration & cultural integration period of our time to identify oneself in terms of clan, race, religion, etc. not only clashes with the progress of society, but also puts the proponents of strict communal values at the extreme position in conflict with the wave of modern progress and there by disturb the peaceful coexistence of societies. As the Ethiopians say, reportedly quoting from Emperor Haile Selassie, while "religion is a private matter, the affair of a nation is mutual". In deed it is detrimental to preserve ones belief and respect others' while living and sharing with each other's blessings for the betterment of nations and societies. As long as we keep our personal belief for ourselves and respect others', there is nothing that brings us in collision and makes fight each other. And, authorities who assume different roles should also be accountable for the safety and rights of all citizens. Leaders of the free nations, the likes of presidents Neilson Mandela and Barak Obama who brought monumental changes by embracing wholeness -fraternity and unity among all citizens, have the utmost responsibility to lead the modern society in harmony and democratic values. It is also important to note that it is a common interest to the world helping peoples of less fortunate countries, such as the people of Ethiopia, to achieve their democratic and human rights freedom and let be partners in peace. And, those of us who have resettled in the free and democratic countries, such as Canada, should leave aside and discard old misgivings among ourselves. It is important to integrate ourselves with the larger population and contribute our best to the host country when at the same time we can call for a full participation as citizens and strive to maximize our rights and demands in a peaceful and democratic means.

EARTH DAY IS ALL WET IN TORONTO!

Copyright 2010, Muluken Muchie, Wei Lem

Toronto --The water was pouring down in Toronto on Earth Day this year, 2010. No, the Toronto weather was just fine, thanks. This year, the famous water filter company, Brita Canada, "poured" into Toronto's famous downtown Yonge-Dundas Square, with lots of toys and people to celebrate Earth Day 2010. Actually, a trailer truck, filled with some 3000 Brita pitchers and filters!

People began lining up at 10 a.m. At 11a.m., on Earth Day, with games and prizes, Brita began giving away 3,000 free Brita pitchers and filters; to raise public awareness about the environment, mother earth, and of course, water! The bad, unfriendly features of bottled water, in fact!

Did you know that, according to Brita research, that it takes some three liters to create one liter of bottled water... All that plastic, oil, energy, landfilled empty water bottles... Brita suggests their pitcher filter can replace as many as 300 standard (500mL) water bottles.

So Brita is trying to get the people of Toronto to switch from water bottles to Brita water, with its free Brita filter system giveaways; but also with its other initiatives like an online pledge, where thousands of Canadians have pledged to give up bottled water on Brita's Filter-ForGood.ca website. Brita estimates that some 12.5 million bottles of water have been eliminated already through this one Brita initiative!

Since looking at the Brita material, we are generally still so impressed. Good green people need to be on the watch for corporate greenwash. But Brita seems to be flowing in the right direction; even taking into account not only the recycling of its plastic water filters, but whether recycling or disposal created a better, cleaner overall environmental footprint. But what happens to the toxins, heavy metals, etc., that are filtered out by Brita water systems --and now left in the filter?!

What about the cleanliness and reliability of the filter system? Do they get moldy? Do the filtered toxins ever get released back into the water storage reservoir?

And that night of Earth Day, in the Toronto square, Brita poured on more global goodwill, with a free acoustic performance by David Usher! Was he drinking Brita water in his green room?

Inquiring minds need to know all these things! So let's kick back, raise a glass of water (poured from a Brita water filter system, of course!), and go peek again at Brita's website again... Did you take the online Brita pledge yet? We'll do some research, and send some emails to Brita; and we promise to let you know in the next edition of Hawarya, what we find out! Cheers! Happy Earth Day --but then everyday should be a day where we show respect to mother earth, and each other! Cheers!

CANADIAN COOKING

IT'S FUNNY (SAD) WE FORGET TO VOTE!

If you're from Ethiopia and you've just arrived in Canada I want to welcome you. I was born in Canada so I've never had the difficulties or the excitement of coming to a brand new country.

There are a million and one reasons why you chose Canada but I bet there's one that stands out above all the rest; YOU GET TO VOTE!

Yes I think voting is a privilege but it's amazing how many Canadians don't do it.

For example Toronto is having a mayoralty election this fall and if history repeats itself about 24% of the people who are entitled to vote will. That means 76% of the people who are entitled to vote will take a pass and say,

"It doesn't matter."

By the way tell someone who comes from a country where no elections are held that it doesn't matter!

Now the provincial and federal elections are not as bad but even those elections have a very large minority that chooses not to vote.

We've all heard about the elections in Kabul last year where all kinds of nonsense went on. I mean it took months to get an accurate count because of things like ballot stuffing and voter intimidation.

Of course Afghanistan is not the only place where this kind of stuff goes on but you get my point. In Canada we have an election on a Tuesday and by Wednesday afternoon we know who's won.

Nothing is perfect and yes over the years there have been problems with Canadian elections but all of them are sorted out eventually.

By the way let me explain to you how a Canadian election is different from other places in the world. For example "ballot stuffing". In Canada it means the guy sitting at the polling station in the high school gym is "stuffing" a burrito down his throat just before he hands you the ballot in which you vote on.

In Canada "voter intimidation" means that when the woman at the polling station stands and directs you to the washroom you're shocked to see that she is much taller than you.

In Canada "lack of security" at a polling station means the guy in charge of locking up the gym after the polls close has fallen asleep in his chair.

So you see voting in Canada is different. I've made a point of voting in every election since 1974 and I will continue to do so until they put me in the box. Not the ballots box the other box.

Again thanks for choosing Canada as your home and once you get all the legal stuff out of the way and you become a full fledge Canadian make it a point to vote.

I've had that opportunity my whole life and pretty soon you will too.

Remember it's an honor and a privilege to vote. It's also a responsibility to be taken seriously.

And guess what someday if you're so inclined you might see your name on the ballot, which will speak volumes about you and even more about this great country, called Canada.

WORLD EXCLUSIVE: HAWARYA NEWS

Toronto city councillor is the hero who expose "secret book" about city parking ticket policy; or guardian of the status quo?!

copyright 2010, Ani Sesom

Parking tickets, a matter that touches the hearts and minds --and pocket books-- of citizens, voters and taxpayers in Toronto, Canada, and around the world! So it is no surprise that City Councillor Howard Moscoe of Toronto is making big news these days, as he is being identified by the media as the political hero breaking the news about a "secret book" containing city parking ticket policy, and a list of people, vehicle services, businesses, and neighborhood streets that are exempted from parking ticket fines. Councillor Moscoe is being portrayed as some kind of populist hero, indignant that this secret book and policy exists, and that some people may be getting special treatment, cancelling their parking tickets, and costing taxpayers millions of dollars in lost revenue.

City officials suggest there's no secret booklet, just a policy manual outlining basic, routine circumstances under which parking tickets can be cancelled on a discretionary basis by city officials.

Funnily enough, city officials can't talk about "the book" or "the policy." But at the May 20, 2010, City's meeting of the Government Management Committee, considered the matter; and revealed that such a "secret book and secret parking policy" do exist. According to Management Committee member, Councillor Mike del Grande, the committee shall recommend at June's meeting of full City Council, that the "secret book and parking policy" be released to the public.

So before June's meeting, Hawarya News is ahead of the curve again, to give readers and citizens, useful insights into the issues that touch our communities and the world. In this article, we give you some important thoughts and revelations about Councillor Moscoe, and the "secret parking book and policy." The issue of parking tickets is huge enough, nearly three million being issued last year alone in Toronto! But this whole issue of "secret books" and "secret government policy" is truly a terrible thing, especially in this age of increasing government corruption, and reveals a lack of government accountability and transparency.

A report by the City's Auditor of Toronto stated that 2.9 million parking tickets were issued in 2008. And that some 12,000 tickets in 2008 were cancelled for "discretionary reasons," worth some $525,000. Of the 2.9 million tickets issued, some 15% are recorded as cancelled and unpaid, some $18 million annually. Some $103 million in total parking ticket fines, representing 3.4 million tickets, are outstanding as of December, 2008.

But at the May 20, 2010, meeting of Government Management Committee, Councillor Bill Saunderson, noted that there may be some "secret" tickets that were dealt with under the "secret parking policy," that were never even recorded in official city records!

This month, May 2010, the media is buzzing, also, with stories that the city and province want to get tough on enforcement and collection of ticket fines and payments. These outstanding fines are a great loss of revenue to the city, many politicians and media say. But may we point out the other side of the coin. These government revenues are exacted mainly against the hardworking citizens and voters of the city, hard-pressed now by the expanding economic recession, that many City Councillors don't believe, or just don't see with their salaries. Councillor expense accounts alone, are larger than the average salary in Toronto, and Canada! Many citizens see aggressive parking ticket campaigns as just a tax on the people. Councillor Saunderson agreed, "Yes, our 'Green Hornet' parking enforcement officers, may be too aggressive sometimes."

So against this background of economic hardship by Toronto citizens and taxpayers, some media, city politicians, and political candidates seemed to have missed several important issues surrounding this possibly "secret book" and "secret parking policy."

Firstly, is there a "secret parking policy," and "secret book." Yes! We heard this confirmed directly by Councillor Saunderson and Councillor Mike Del Grande at Government Management Committee, and by Councillor Moscoe in February, and as reported by the media in these more recent months!

Are some individuals, companies, getting special breaks, cancellations of their parking tickets, while the rest of Toronto citizens and taxpayers, are forced to pay and/or take a day off of work, to go court to fight our parking tickets? Is there two-tier system of justice and enforcement in Toronto? Those who pay tickets, and those who get off, because they have friends and/or know the "secret handshake," the secret book containing the "secret parking policy" of Toronto?

How long has this been going on?

May we consider also that Councillor Howard Moscoe was first elected to North York Council in 1978, 32 years ago. Yet now, now in May of the year 2010, Councillor Moscoe admits that he has known about the "secret parking book...for some 31 years!" And that he has been "trying to do something about it!?"

Councillor Saunderson stated that he only heard about the "secret book and policy," in April of 2010, a month ago, from Councillor Moscoe....

Has Councillor Moscoe been the people's hero, fighting to expose the "secret book" and "secret" parking policy of the city of Toronto? Or has Councillor Moscoe been content for 31 years, on this parking issue, to let hard-working, decent Toronto taxpayers, citizens, pay taxes, and parking tickets, while people "on the inside," got their tickets cancelled?!

In fairness, to Councillor Moscoe,

Though under attack for City Council spending and waste, Councillor Moscoe, Ward 15 Eglinton- Lawrence, was recently welcomed to the ward, the Ethiopia African community Church, at their new Church's cornerstone ceremony. Photo :His Holiness Abune Merkorios(2nd from right), IV Patriarch of The Ethiopian Orthodox Tewhahedo Church and Councillor Howard Moscoe (2nd from left).

he has made significant positive contributions to the city of Toronto over his 32 years of public service; and certainly recently to the Ethiopia and African Toronto communities and peoples.

Just last month, in fact, Councillor Moscoe was a guest of honour, obviously respected by the Ethiopia Toronto community at a ceremony at a leading Ethiopia Toronto Church. Over the years, Councillor Moscoe has helped, certainly, the Ethiopia community and the Church, testifying before the city planning committee about the credibility, good reputation, and necessity of our Ethiopia Church, and community organizations.

The public is angry and frustrated, seeing so many of Toronto politicians, bureaucrats and staff as increasingly out of touch, unaccountable, and indifferent to citizens and taxpayers. Ironically, perhaps, while looking for an issue to make himself look like a populist hero, in this important election year, Councillor Moscoe may have opened himself and members of the city to greater scrutiny and controversy.

Another problem facing Councillor Moscoe over this "secret parking policy issue" is that Councillor Moscoe may have forgotten that this very issue of the "secret parking policy" has been discussed at a recent City Council meeting, tangentially --by him! But at that Council meeting, rather than taking the opportunity of being the hero of the people, speaking out against the whole issue of the "secret book and parking policy" then, Councillor Moscoe left the impression that he seemed quite knowledgeable about the secret book, the city's "secret parking policies." He spoke about how courier companies routinely came into city ticketing offices with stacks of tickets, to be routinely cancelled.

What do these courier companies know? The driver delivering take-out food, flowers, small parcels, is not exempted from parking tickets? Should couriers, get this special advantage, while the small business owner taxpayer does not?

In fact, it was Councillor Moscoe, himself, who suggested at the City Council meeting, that Council should take the Council meeting into private session, as the matter of the book and parking policy were confidential.... Councillor Moscoe made no protracted effort to stand up for the peoples and taxpayers of Toronto. He made no protest about the "secret" book or parking policy; nor the public's need to know; nor the public fairness of wholesale ticket cancellations by some at city hall...

The manner of Councillor Moscoe seemed to suggest that he was quite content to maintain the status quo, and the book and the parking policy confidential.

Beyond Councillor's Moscoe's own behaviour, there are larger issues still, hurting the good peoples and taxpayers of Toronto, regarding the city's parking policy.

Are parking tickets, especially on quiet residential streets, merely another new tax on the already burdened citizens and taxpayers of Toronto and the GTA?

Secondly, the city reported in 2006, that of approximately 2.8 million tickets issued, 502,963 or 17.63% of these were cancelled (representing approximately $15 million) for reasons including valid permits, incomplete tickets, parking equipment malfunctions, defective signage, special considerations (e.g. emergency situations, funerals). In other words, thousands, tens of thousands of tickets may be issued IMPROPERLY, against drivers, citizens of Toronto, who are LEGALLY parked!

But the process of fighting and cancelling even a wrongfully issued ticket is time-consuming and frustrating to the average citizen. In fact, City Council created a system that requires people to go to the police station and/or the court to have their tickets cancelled; forcing hardworking citizens of Toronto to take time --often unpaid time-- off from work, to fight tickets that were actually improperly written up!

How many such improperly issued tickets are there, forcing decent citizens to make unnecessary visits to police stations and courts... or to even pay, rather than lose a day's pay at work?! Hawarya shall enquire.

If you have been a victim of such aggressive or wrongly issued parking tickets, please be welcome to contact us with your stories, at Hawarya.

One of Canada's top legal writers, Andrew James, offers this summary of the problems of the parking ticket system --even the possibility of breaches of Ontario law:

"Such a booklet reflects a culture of secrecy at city hall", said Andrew James, the author of the Ontario Municipal Law: A Users Manual and a candidate for Toronto city council in Ward 30. "The city takes a zero tolerance approach to parking on residential streets and popular streets like the Danforth, in what is clearly a money-generating program. It's hypocritical to turn around and grant special treatment to individuals and businesses without complete transparency. And if some businesses do get special treatment, such a program might violate the law. But as long as the exemption list stays secret, we don't know for sure."

And on the highest philosophical level of public policy. May we take a moment to remind hardworking Toronto citizens and taxpayers a fundamental matter: Governments were created to help organize people into communities, units; so people could realize their full goodness and potential. So people could realize the better society, humanity. Governments were created to develop good public policy to support to the public good! But the city's parking policy and increasingly aggressive parking ticket campaign in some areas and quiet residential areas, seems to have no basis in traffic safety, community nor neighborhood safety or betterment. Parking tickets are becoming just another example of the growing arrogance and bullying contempt that city political leaders, officials and bureaucrats hold towards the citizens of the world, in this case, the taxpayers of Toronto. The parking ticket issue is another example of the greater issues now confronting politicians and society now: the loss of trust, and lack of accountability, that the public feels towards politicians and city bureaucrats.

So Hawarya is happy to make another media first, but sad to point out that city councillor Moscoe may not be hero, trying to save Toronto taxpayers millions of dollars, and trying to expose "secret book" about city parking policy and exemptions.

WEIZHEN TANG: CHINESE BUFFETT, OR CHINESE MADOFF

over the course of several weeks, wherever and whenever we were invited to an audience with "The King of 1%" --whether at an Ethiopian restaurant that he enjoyed; to the inner sanctum of his home. This included a session of several hours on a hard, stark wooden bench at the courthouse, on May 10, 2010, while Tang awaited his first hearing since prison.

Equally far-ranging were the topics and musings by Tang; from his family, his success, his Buffett investment techniques, to his recent life regrets; and his insights --while in jail-- about the world. A world Tang sees as riddled by racism, corruption and yes, "fraud." Coining, perhaps, a new phrase, Tang, the "Chinese Buffett," suggests that not only is he not a fraudster, but that Weizhen Tang may raise again, and be the saviour of the present global economic crisis, "the anti-fraud," as Tang calls himself.

So is Tang the Chinese Warren Buffett, The King of 1%, or simply another devious, investment fraudster, a Chinese Bernie Madoff?

In Weizhen Tang's own words, "What I do is contrarian, work on a consistent profitable system and give future achievable performance of 1 % per week return, a easy target, and take all the risk and responsibility."

Whether you want to learn about how to avoid investment missteps and fraud; or simply enjoy a good real-life thriller, the story of Weizhen Tang is a real life, rags to riches story --or perhaps, rags to jailhouse story.

Against the backdrop of today's global economic crisis, the story of Tang may help us all, heighten our collective consciousness to the success, failures, and looming dangers of our national and global governments, justice and financial systems; so badly in need of reform and scrutiny. How could Tang be allowed to so publicly gather, over a three years period, some $65 million, the hard-earned monies --life savings in some cases-- of over 200 investors!

Some kind of "anti-Christ" in reverse, or another devil, anti-Christ fraudster, in disguise, preying on the good and greed of hardworking people?!

Based on many hours, and many days, of extensive interviews with Mr Tang, the contemplated single article about Weizhen Tang, has morphed into this article series, delving into the fascinating life, lifestyle, and very psyche of one of Canada's and the world's most famous Chinese investment fund managers. We hope this journey gives readers some insight into the genius and distortions that are imploding our world, our global financial system today; bringing about such things as the Mainstream and Chinese language media follows Weizhen Tang, 51, through the hallways and onto the steps of the courthouse in Toronto, Canada. But Hawarya is the media to get exclusive, extensive interview with Tang that day.

collapses of Lehman Brothers, Merrill Lynch, and even threatening nation states, like Greece, Iceland, Italy, and possibly soon, Britain and the U.S.A.

On a personal level, to those readers dreaming of and striving toward becoming a local or global leader and success, this truly is a rags to bittersweet riches story: from humble farmer family beginnings in rural Hunan province of China; to big money, fame, high society, investors, and the jet-set life in North America, China, and the world. Tang became one of the best known Chinese Canadian leaders in the community, locally, nationally and internationally. He hosted, sponsored and attended private lavish dinners; very public community charitable events; to some of the largest Chinese community events in Canada, and the world. Before his fall in 2009, Tang hosted Toronto's largest Chinese New Year's events.

On April 13, 2008, with anti-Chinese animus building towards the 2008 Beijing Olympics, Tang spearheaded a rally on the steps of the Canadian Parliament in Ottawa, that became one of the largest rallies in the world, promoting friendship between the Chinese peoples and the peoples of the world.

And in January and February, 2009, just before his fall --as part of his fall-- Tang hosted the largest Chinese Canadian investment summit, attended by hundreds of investors; and featuring prominent China, Canada and UN officials; and ironically, a former Senior Vice President of Risk Management from CIBC, one of Canada's largest banks. This SVP was eventually questioned as to his role with Tang, but has never been charged.

It is rumoured that top level China government and business leaders were exploring investing hundreds of millions, billions, of dollars into Tang's investment funds.

Tang admits to losing tens of millions of dollars to his investors, begging forgiveness and more time to repay

In January 2009, like the global markets that Tang invested in, Tang's skyrocketing success and fame came to a screeching crash. Tang's 2009 Toronto Canadian investment summit conference was meant to "shake up the world" --to show investors, the media, his ability to generate 1% per cent returns per week. In his offices next to the Toronto Stock Exchange, Tang held a live week-long demonstration of his real-time trading, planning to show the world the power of his system, the "power of his Buffett investment genius."

The media follows Mr. Tang

All that week in January 2009, while investors and media looked on, Tang boldly traded across a dazzling mixture of stocks, commodities, currencies, around the world. Yes, he made hundreds of thousands of dollars a day; but he lost hundreds of thousands of dollars in other transactions! Tang, the Chinese Warren Buffett had failed miserably, like Icarus flying too close to the sun?

"I was under such incredible pressure. I should never have done the demonstration," Tang told us, in a quiet tone. "I can do 1% per week. I did 1% per week. I can do more than 1% per week," Tang added, his voice regaining its normal confidence; his face regaining its normal smile!

But for Tang, this live demonstration was his turning point, the beginning of his Icarus fall from the sky. Within days, Tang's existing investors panicked, rushing to withdraw millions of dollars en masse; forcing Tang to finally admit that there was no more cash to give to investors; admitting the unthinkable: he, Weizhen Tang, the Chinese Warren Buffett, "The King of 1%" had lost tens of millions of investors dollars.

At a very angry meeting, with shouting and pushing, Tang asked investors for both their forgiveness; and time --six months to recoup their losses. But within weeks, investors organized, launching lawsuits against Tang, and went to American and Canadian government regulators, and law enforcement.

On March 17, 2009, the Ontario Securities Commission, the OSC, shut down Tang's Canadian operation, the "Overseas Chinese Fund."

Less than a month later, in April 2009, the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, the SEC, filed fraud charges against Tang and his partners in Dallas, alleging his funds were a Ponzi scheme. The SEC froze all assets in his American funds, with such esoteric names as Bluejay and WinWin Capital.

From rural China farming family, to biochemistry graduate student, to community leader, and investment manager of $65 Million... This is truly a case of life being stranger than fiction. Tang and his story truly is a larger than life tale and life lesson, for those wanting to be business and society leaders. Tang, certainly is larger than life, "the Chinese Buffett," the "King of 1%."

With this backdrop, then, we met Mr. Tang, for the first time, at an African restaurant in Toronto's Ethiopia Village district. It was incredible, sitting in the LALIBELA Restaurant, eating Ethiopian injera and lamb, with our fingers, speaking to Tang, a man who had raised $65 Million dollars in 3 years. Fearing Tang would flee like some African wild animal, we quickly cut to the chase, asking Mr. Tang straight out, about his innocence: Had he bilked over 200 investors of some $30 Million?!

To his credit, Tang replied without hesitation, with the gentle, warm smile that we came to know as part of his character. "I am innocent. But look, before I have any trial, the media convict me, government convict me..."

"I am innocent, innocent. I don't take any money. No one can find any stolen money, because I don't take any money."

Tang stops, sighs, takes a sip of his beer. "SEC and OSC ban me from trading in North America. They freeze all my money. They destroy my business, my family, my investors..."

"I cannot make a living. I go to China. I am in China, when Toronto Police announce warrant for my arrest! Would I come back to Canada law, if I am guilty?! I come back to prove my innocence to my investors, to the peoples of Canada, China and the world."

But then, like the roller-coaster stock market, Tang's musings rocketed 180 degrees. "But I am confident of the future. I began with no money, made lots of money, and shall make lots of money again, for myself, my investors."

It was an incredible moment, like watching an airplane suddenly flying sideways. But we were to learn that this is a defining characteristic of Tang. In the face of adversity, the collapse of his business empire, Tang still radiates optimism, ability, vision, and confidence. An enormous confidence; indeed, a huge ego, that is yet disarming, positive; versus the more controversial, often arrogant hubris displayed by say, businessman genius, Donald Trump.

In this moment, one can see how Tang attracted community, political, high society and investment followers. In our interview sessions, Tang seems, frankly, friendly, courteous, respectful, soft-spoken, in his words and manner. His eyes, face and voice, light up, as he speaks about his ability, his "powerful investment system... based upon the studying of such great investors as Warren Buffett and George Soros, Jim Rogers."

In these weeks, it was incredible to hear this man speak about his future, still speaking in terms of "making millions... and billions of dollars" for himself and his investors.

Is Tang that capable, or that delusional? Looking at this man sitting across from us, we wondered had Tang forgotten that just about at this time, a year ago, in 2009, the governments of Ontario, Canada, and the United States charged Tang with multiple counts of fraud. Had Tang forgotten that he had just spent some 3 months in jail, because he could not raise his bail money; and was now applying for Legal Aid, because he could not afford to pay a lawyer?!

Tang: "I am the 'anti-fraud.' "

Not only does Tang not admit any guilt, he suggests that he "could help the SEC and OSC... detect fraudsters! I would help them get end fraud in the industry. I am the 'anti-fraud.' "

Asked to clarify this, Tang explains.

"Today's trading system is all wrong. There is no accountability by the stock brokers, the investment managers, the banks, the industry. Look at the madness of Lehman Brothers, Merrill Lynch, Freddie and Fannie, Goldman Sachs... They lose billions of dollars. The taxpayers of North America, and the world are giving trillions to bail out these fraudsters... but I am the one charged with fraud?!"

For once, Tang's voice rose uncharacteristically in anger, "If investors make or lose money, the brokers always make money. If the big investment company is in trouble, they get bailout, with our tax dollars!

"But me, Weizhen Tang, I take responsibility for my investors. If they don't make money, I don't make commission. If I lose their money, I commit to repay them. And now, with all my troubles, do I ask government for bailout?! No, I offer to trade more, and recoup my investors money.... So you see, I am accountable, responsible. I am not fraud. I am the 'anti-fraud.' This is one of my realizations during my time in jail."

In these troubled times, Tang's "anti-fraud" sentiment may, indeed, resonate with the public, the peoples of North America, China and the world --the people that Tang is appealing to, to show his innocence. Can Tang transform his image to become the hero, rallying against the lack of accountability and morality on Wall Street, Bay Street and the investment industry?! Jailbird turned populist hero?

Tang is hesitant to speak on the record about his time in jail. Ironically, while interviewing Tang at the courthouse, Tang exchanges greetings and nods with several prisoners walking by --in handcuffs, escorted by police and court officers.

Tang said he spent his free time reading, thinking, writing down his thoughts.... "I have a new book planned," Tang announced, almost beaming. "Telling my life story, my battle with the government and investors; my powerful investment system, so people can make successful business and life."

Tang's great hubris, or great ability? "What I did was very powerful, unique," claims Tang. He is writing a new book, that he says shall help people invest successfully; help show Tang "in the light of innocence, like Donald Trump did, with his best-selling books... "

Though Trump's investment and self-promotion genius is, of course, legendary, Tang's choices of heroes and role models are perplexing, like Tang, himself. Though Trump was never accused of defrauding investors of $75 Million USD like Tang; there was the very public, and bitter feud between Trump and Rosie O'Donnell, about Trump's bankruptcies, that would foreshadow Trump's recent 2008 financial troubles and bankruptcies.

Mr. and Mrs. Tang welcomed us into his inner sanctum, his house, where he still speaks of making billions of dollars.

In Tang's living room, Tang points proudly to photos, awards, citations, including "Ontario Volunteer of the Year" from the Government of Ontario, Canada; and a photo of Tang, and another man, "Robert... a global spokesman of Warren Buffett."

In November 2004, Mr. Tang was invited to China, to speak at the "Dialogue on the Buffet's Theory and Practice of Investment," by the Asia Pacific CEO Association. Perhaps, the photo is from that. How ironic, that Tang is now billed as the infamous

"Chinese Warren Buffett, or "Chinese Bernie Madoff"

But Tang is ever smiling, and optimistic about his legal cases, and his future. In fact, Tang claims that the Toronto Police evidence is "thin," but asks us not to go into details of the evidence, in this article.

Tang offers us Chinese herbal tea, and then explains another concept he developed and coined --while he was in jail. He asks us to help announce to the public about "immigration jail."

"Please tell the peoples of Canada, and the world, that we all live in an 'immigration jail' in Canada," Tang begins. Tang believes that he has been targeted because of racism, that Canada and the United States are still very racist societies. "With the billions and trillions of taxpayer dollars lost... and billions of dollars given in bailout for the financial industry, no one has been charged. No one is going to jail, at the top of the system... But me, Weizhen Tang, a Chinese man, an ethnic man... I am charged and put in jail!"

"I began thinking in jail, that we are live in jails. In countries, like Canada, USA, Britain, we think we have freedom, equality, justice. But we, immigrants, newcomers, ethnics --we are really in 'jail.' "

We are held down, kept down, by a system that holds back people, not in the highest levels. These elite people commit frauds. They do not go jail. In fact, they get corporate bonuses, and government bailouts... And now, they give themselves these huge bonuses! Using bailouts, using our tax dollars! Then those in banking, they turn around and foreclose on the mortgages of taxpayers! This is why I am an 'anti-fraud.' This is why I say we live in 'immigration jail.' "

We don't remind Mr. Tang about the many other newcomers To Canada and the USA, who proudly worked hard and achieved the "American dream."

But Tang's comments cannot be completely written off as those of an egomaniac, a fraudster trying to rationalize his Ponzi scheme and/or investment losses. A few days after Tang's courthouse comments on May 10, 2010, complaining about the seeming protection afforded corporate elites and bailouts, Iceland announced criminal arrests and lawsuits against its bankers, over Iceland's economic collapse. A few days ago, Greece now suggests that it, too, might sue those American banks, responsible for the Greek and global economic collapse.

And in America, the economic implosion continues. Fannie Mac announced 1Q losses of $13.1B, and its plans to seek a new bailout of $8.4 Billion USD. (Fannie Mae has posted $136.8 billion in losses over the previous 10 quarters, with this new aid, Fannie Mae's total bailout shall be $84.6 billion. While Freddie Mac has posted a $6.7 billion loss, and with its new aid request of $10.6 billion, the USA Treasury Department has a total bill for the two of nearly $145 billion! The government, of course, has no money. These bailouts are being funded by the decent, hardworking peoples of America and the world.

Tang believes he may run for Mayor

Through these interviews, we had wanted to delve into the deepest realms of the mind and thoughts of Weizhen Tang, Chinese Buffett or Madoff. In concluding our interview, we thought we would try for one more verbal snapshot of Weizhen Tang's psyche. So we mentioned another prominent Canadian, Lord Conrad Black, charged --and now convicted-- of fraud and obstruction of justice. Recently, from his jail cell, convicted felon, Lord Conrad Black endorsed Mayoralty candidate, Sarah Thomson, in the upcoming municipal elections in Toronto, Canada.

"Who would you endorse, Mr. Tang in the upcoming Toronto mayoralty race?" we asked, almost tongue in cheek, but truly curious as to his reaction.

"No one," Tang replied. "Perhaps, I should run. I am the most qualified..."

The words of an innocent man, so confident of his ability and sincerity?! The words of a guilty man, who fell into the sea because of his own hubris?

Tang pushed on, eager to defend his name, his actions. "Look at another investment cheat who get off easy," Tang noted. "Martha Stewart. Another Caucasian."

In his hubris, without knowing it, has Tang hit upon something? Stewart was found guilty in 2004 of conspiracy, obstruction of an agency proceeding, making false statements to federal investigators. Stewart served a five-month term. Without even going to trial yet, Tang has already served three months --after being denied bail. "Martha Stewart, Lehman, Fannie Mae, Freddie Mac, Goldman Sachs! They cheat the system much more. They cheat the American people and taxpayers. But they are getting off free, while I am charged, my business and life destroyed." Tang sighs and shrugs his shoulders in despair.

Ironically, whether self-serving or not, Tang's comments about his new crusade as the "anti-fraud," may one day be seen as one of the tipping points of public awareness and patience, that helps better the financial industry and world; exposing the corruption, and unaccountability of some global government and corporate leaders.

Over these years, we have written about such evil. For over a decade, there have been much more brilliant minds making such similar warnings about the implosion of the American and global financial system; like whistle-blower, Catherine Austin-Fitts, a former managing director, and a member of the Board of Directors of the prestigious Wall Street investment bank Dillon, Read & Co., Inc.

Austin-Fitts served as Assistant Secretary of Housing/Federal Housing Commissioner at HUD, in the first Bush Administration. For years, she warned about missing trillions of dollars; warned openly about these mega-holes and manipulations in government and corporate financing.

Bernie Madoff, a former NASDAQ Chairman; Fannie Mae, Freddie Mac, Enron, Lehman, Merrill Lynch, AIG, Goldman Sachs... The politicians, the bankers, brokers, lawyers, accountants who enabled them.

Activists and concerned citizens across North America and around the world are now trying to act, to raise the global consciousness of the peoples of the world.

Adding "fuel" is mega-corporation, BP, British Petroleum, its Gulf oil spill destroying the precious water, ecology and lives of people of Canada, USA and the world. Through its lobbying, American politicians set BP's maximum liability for oil spills at $75 Million USD... The stakes are high for the world, in this struggle against corporate and government accountability. For Tang, the stakes are high, too, he faces 60 years of prison, if convicted.

So we come full circle, in the larger than life, but true world and mind of Mr. Weizhen Tang, the Chinese Warren Buffett, or the Chinese Bernie Madoff; with a twist of Martha Stewart, and a dash of Donald Trump hubris...

Lufthansa announces extended service to Addis Ababa with additional connections on Ethiopian Airlines

This summer, Lufthansa makes it easier to share the rich history and colorful traditions of Ethiopia with the people you love: 13 months of sunshine, the sound of drumbeats announcing an afternoon service, the aroma of coffee beans roasted as you wait, and gathering with family to tear the injera and dip it in your favorite sauces.

Lufthansa announces extended service to Addis Ababa with additional connections on Ethiopian Airlines. To get there in comfort, we provide daily service from Toronto to our hub in Frankfurt, where quick, seamless connections to Bole International Airport (ADD) are available ten times per week, some made possible through our partner, Ethiopian Airlines.

Like you, we have roots in Africa

To offer this expanded timetable, we've partnered with Ethiopian Airlines, the flag carrier of Ethiopia. Ethiopian Airlines has grown to become one of the continent's leading carriers.

Lufthansa is proud of its forty-year history of service in Ethiopia and is very pleased that an increased demand has allowed for an expanded flight schedule.

The route will be served by an Airbus A340-300, offering exemplary service and excellent entertainment on personal video screens in all three classes. Choose from a wide selection of current films, audio books or music at the touch of a button, right from your fingertips.
